
Pulp Mills: From monocultures to Industrial Pollution

The whiteness of a sheet of paper hides obscure stories of environmental degradation and social dispossession. Those stories are seldom known by consumers living far away from where the raw material -wood- is obtained and from where pulp and paper are produced. It is therefore important to know -and tell- the story.

Pulp Mills: From monocultures to Industrial Pollution