Pulp Mills: From monocultures to Industrial Pollution

The whiteness of a sheet of paper hides obscure stories of environmental degradation and social dispossession. Those stries are seldom know by consumers living far away from where the raw material -wood- is obteined and from where pulp and paper are produced. It is therefore important to know -and tell- the story.

Pulp Mills: From monocultures to Industrial Pollution