

---

Interview: How trade and investments have converted agricultural lands and fishing grounds into special economic zones