
North American First Nations websites

At the Nawash website

you can find information about the struggle of this indigenous nation of North America.

The website of the First Nations Information Project offers quick access to native organizations, government departments, federal press releases, and the Supreme Court of Canada.

Source: David McLaren, January 1998.