China: Villagers sue a timber company and a local government for drying up their water sources